Restructure health systems to incentivise prevention for both physical and mental health

Reimagine investment beyond the upfront cost towards longer term investments and measurements of success

Make practical changes that improve collaboration, like improved data sharing and better communication between health providers that can improve health equity

Improve knowledge of how to best reach certain populations by incorporating best practices from outside the health sector